

Name: _____

Compare and Contrast

An important part of understanding ourselves and the characters we read, is making comparisons and contrasts. As we search for similarities and differences, we can draw conclusions that serve as powerful metaphors for understanding. For this assignment follow the written cues including comparing/contrasting a character in Monster with an object or person of your choice. Your answers should reflect concrete thought.

I am going to compare and contrast _____ and _____.

Things that are alike

Things that are different